METRANS on the Move: Our Weekly Newsletter for Students

This issue is dedicated to our beloved USC Mascot, Traveler VII (1995 – 2018)

Dr. Deguzman at USC SENIOR SCENDOFF 2017 with Shichun Hu, USC Viterbi MSISE 2017, PhD Student in ISE; Griffin Kantz, USC Price B.S. Policy, Planning, and Development 2017, Transportation Planning Intern at KOA; Xiaobe Wu, USC Viterbi MSEM 2017, Business System Analyst at the Walt Disney Studios; Nicole Guo, USC Viterbi MSCE Transportation Engineering 2017, Transportation Engineering Intern at DKS Associates; and the USC Mascot, Traveler!

Welcome to METRANS On the Move, our weekly transportation newsletter produced by students. This week we proudly feature Professor James Moore's 30 years of service to USC, our practitioner speaker Shawn Chavira, and new UCLA research on the cause of transit ridership decline. As always, we also include numerous opportunities for engagement and employment.

We invite contributions from throughout the transportation community of both content and original articles. Contact me or any member of our student team to share your events, opportunities, news, and stories on this METRANS platform and reach an audience of thousands of transportation enthusiasts like you!

METRANS Spring 2018 Speakers Series Student Panel Discussion

The Case for Grad School: You Can Never Be Too Educated!
Wednesday, February 7, 2018, 12:00 pm to 1:00 pm
USC RGL Room 100

Join the student Panel discussion on grad school for current and recent graduate level students to share their motivations and experience with others – some pursued a masters, some more than one masters, and some pursued a doctoral level education. All have differing motivations and situations (one returning from the workforce, several extending their education directly, and one for employment reasons) but all are glad they did.

The confirmed speakers are listed here.

- Shichun Hu, PhD ISE student and Research Associate at USC Viterbi School of Engineering
- Kate Amisshah, USC MSCE, Transportation Planner at LA Metro
- Sue Dexter, USC Price School of Public Policy, PhD and former Program Manager at Toyota Motor North America
- Michael C.Y.Lin, USC Price School of Public Policy, PhD and Senior Associate at Center for Regional Economics.

Lunch will be served.

UC Davis PSR Seminar
Assessing impacts of transport innovations – Electrification Automation, and Sharing –
Through Ride-hailing Research

Friday, February 9, 2018, 1:40 pm to 3:00 pm
1605 Tilia, Room 1103, West Village

Speaker: Alejandro Henao, Postdoctoral Researcher, Transportation Systems Group,
National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL)

Three main transport innovations – electrification, automation, and sharing – have the potential to disrupt the landscape of passenger mobility and may significantly impact urban environments. The anticipated effects of these emerging technologies on users, drivers, and our communities can be assessed through the lenses of new mobility services such as ride-hailing (e.g. Uber and Lyft). Ride-hailing datasets enable us to analyze the impacts of future electric, automated, and shared mobility options as there are many similarities and analogies between the former and latter.

2018 USC Price Externship Program - For USC Price Students
March 12 - 16, 2018

The USC Price 2018 Externship Program is coming March 12-16, which is during your Spring Break! Externships offer you an extended "shadowing" opportunity, and provide real-world exposure to settings relevant to your current or desired area of study. In fact, 50% of students received an opportunity with their host site last year!

This program takes place during USC's Spring Break, and, as a result, will ideally enable you to spend up to five days actively working and engaging at a host site. Student participation is open to undergraduates and graduates of the Price School of Public Policy.

If you are interested, please keep the following in mind:

1. Externships are not for credit nor are they paid.
2. You are responsible for transportation, lodging and other incidentals.
3. Your resume must be uploaded in PDF format to complete your rsvp.

Need to have a USC account to log in to check more information.

Free TRB Webinar Improving the Resilience of Transit Systems Threatened by Natural Disasters

Now Accepting Student Resumes
March 12, 2018, 10:00 am to 12:00 pm Pacific Time

TRB will conduct a webinar that features research from the Transit Cooperative Research Program (TCRP)'s Web-Only Document 70: Improving the Resilience of Transit Systems Threatened by Natural Disasters, Volume 1: A Guide, Volume 2: Research Overview, and Volume 3: Literature Review and Case Studies.

The research provides "how to" steps to help transit agencies and others improve their resilience. Transit agencies across the U.S. face a multitude of threats from extreme weather and natural disasters. Ensuring that transit infrastructure and services are resilient to these threats is critical. This webinar will include presentations by several transit agencies featured in the guide. The presenters will provide first-hand accounts of their experiences and lessons learned as they implemented resilience strategies and projects.

Transportation Technology Tournament
Applications Due February 15, 2018

The National Operations Center of Excellence (NOCOe) and the U.S. DOT ITS JPO PCB program announce a competition for students to work directly with state and local DOTs to solve real-world transportation problems utilizing ITS and TSMO solutions.

Student teams will assemble and work with a local or state agency to define a problem or challenge in their region, or choose to address one of the sample problems outlined below. After submitting an initial contest application identify the team and the problem or challenge, students will work with academic advisors to learn about potential ITS and TSMO solutions via online training programs outlined below. Teams will then utilize their experience, education, and new coursework to develop a solution or suite of solutions to directly address the originally defined problem. Students will submit their solutions via a proposal. Finalist teams will develop a presentation and then will be flown to the Institute of Transportation Engineers (ITE) 2018 Annual Meeting in Minneapolis to give a live presentation in front of a panel of judges made up of leaders in the ITS and TSMO community.

Please feel free to contact Adam Hopps at ahopps@transportationops.org or phone (202-680-0091) with any questions in advance of submission.

Scholarship Opportunity to Study in Hong Kong
Annual Asia Institute for Political Economy
Deadline February 15, 2018

The Fund for American Studies, in partnership with George Mason University and the University of Hong Kong, is pleased to announce the 16th annual Asia Institute for Political Economy (AIPE) taking place in Hong Kong from July 7 - 28, 2018.

The Fund for American Studies, in partnership with George Mason University and the University of Hong Kong, is pleased to announce the 16th annual Asia Institute for Political Economy (AIPE) taking place in Hong Kong from July 7 - 28, 2018.

Based in Hong Kong, AIPE offers a unique opportunity for students from Asia and the United States to explore fundamental issues related to political economy and government and delve into serious political and economic issues facing their countries. As the financial center of Asia, as well as the location of recent pro-democracy protests, Hong Kong is the perfect setting to bring together students to discuss these topics. Students engage in a rigorous academic course and participate in stimulating lectures given by the region's most esteemed experts. The combination of educational, cultural, and social exchange allows participants to explore challenging ideas, form life-long friendships, and form cross-border networks that will greatly benefit their educational and professional development. Upon successful completion of the program students will gain undergraduate credit from George Mason University.

Applications are accepted on a rolling basis until the application deadline of February 15, 2018, with the possibility of an extension to March 1, 2018.

For more information about AIPE, check the website www.tfasinternational.org/aipe or email Brigit Moore at bmoore@tfas.org.
